Download Wings XP 2.5 crack Full, InstallHarold Crooks Harold Crooks (born 7 October 1937 in Christchurch, New Zealand) is a former Australian rugby union player who represented Australia in the first ever test against Great Britain in Melbourne in 1960. At the age of 23 Crooks was selected on the national side for the first time, to replace injured skipper Bill Crompton on the wing for the 1960 tour of the British Isles. He was selected to be in the Australian team that faced the British Lions in the summer of 1961 at the old Sydney Cricket Ground. Crooks had been with Canterbury in the Christchurch club competition, and although he had been selected, as the club captain he was unable to play due to injury.
