Font Installation Instructions All of the fonts on Freeware Graphics can be used either for commercial or personal projects, as long as you include appropriate links to the respective author/author's web sites in your final product. The font is licensed to you under the terms of the Font License Agreement. You are free to copy and distribute the fonts, either in part or in their entirety. This is a great asset for personal or commercial projects, so take advantage of it! . In most cases you need to download a font by selecting the option to “Install for Mac” or “Install for Windows”. You will then receive an “Installer”, an “Uninstaller” and a “Readme”. After installation, you will find a new font in your font list, with the correct or default font. Click on it to select it. . If the font does not show up as a font in your font list, you must first activate it. In most cases, you do this by downloading the font in your browser, which has a font list (on Windows) or preferences (on Mac). Navigate to the location where the font was downloaded (you should see the icon of a “.ttf” or “.otf” file). Right-click on it and select the “Install for Mac” or “Install for Windows” option, and choose the option to “Install in Windows 7” or “Install in Windows 8”. After installation, you will find a new font in your font list, with the correct or default font. Click on it to select it. . If you do not have Microsoft Word, you can always copy the text directly in any text editor of your choice. .
