vocals Bonnie Bronson. Tamia Peters is an American rapper, singer, songwriter and actress from Chicago, Illinois. She is a part of the hip hop group 702 along with her twin sister. She was born on May 8, 1986 in Chicago, Illinois. She started writing her own songs at the age of 11. Her first public appearance was on television at the age of 11. She provided the vocals on a rap video for the Hot Hot Hot record by rapper Kevin Richardson. In 1992, she received a scholarship to the DuSable High School for the Visual and Performing Arts. She left to attend Wright State University to study Business Administration. In December, 1993, Tamia made her debut at the MCA Records Party. Tamia then co-wrote the song Someone Like You which was performed by Mariah Carey. Tamia also co-wrote with her sister Ariana Peters the song for Mariah Carey and Billy Joel What Makes. Tamia also has a feature on the song Funky You by Puff Daddy and the song So Many Ways by Mary J. The song Funky You ended up becoming a massive hit. In 1996, Tamia founded her own record label, Tamia Records. In 1997 she signed a deal with Def Jam, where she met Jay-Z. The duo released the single Swag to rave reviews. She later signed a deal with DreamWorks Records, where she then began working on her second album, released in 1999, It's A Wrap. Tamia then teamed up with the producers The Dream Team, which included Sean "Puffy" Combs, Kenneth "Babyface" Edmonds and Timbaland. The group then scored a massive hit with the single Like This. The song made it to the top of the Billboard Hot 100 charts. Combs then signed her to Def Jam in 2000, where he placed her in the position of a number one group member. The duo released the single You Make Me Wanna.. Official Missing You Sheet Music PDF. Official Missing You Sheet Music PDF. PDF FILE. PDF FILE. PDF FILE. PDF FILE. Official Missing You Sheet Music.
